About the Programme

The Joint Master in Global Economic Governance and Public Affairs (GEGPA) is offered by CIFE in Berlin and Nice and the School of Government at Luiss Guido Carli in Rome. The Master focuses on how to assess, manage and enhance private and public institutions' governance with a wide range of economic and digital intelligence tools. It also seeks to sharpen students' analytical skills and strengthen their negotiation capabilities to enhance their future careers as policy-makers.

Learn how governance is a game changer in today's global economy

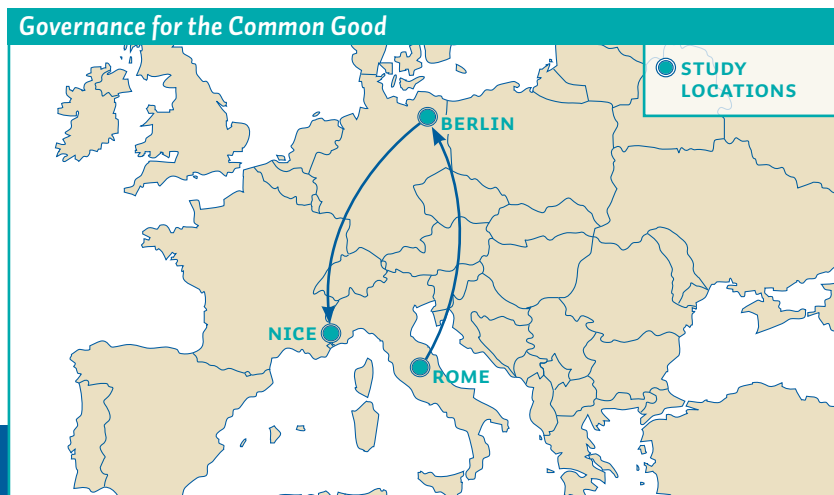

The Master programme is taught by renowned researchers and experienced professionals who combine second to none practical expertise and academic credentials. It combines on-site teaching, case studies, workshops, applied professional skills and a research thesis.

Become a member of a distinguished group of young students from a wide range of national and cultural backgrounds who strive to expand their professional opportunities.

Live and study in three cities in one year: ROME BERLIN NICE

Working language: English

60 ECTS

Overview of the Academic Year

- TERM 1
October
to January
- The programme starts in Rome, on the campus of Luiss School of Government. Courses will give an introduction to Global Governance, focusing on the context and challenges of economic governance and policy in the 21st century.
- TERM 2
February
to April
- The programme continues in Berlin, in the CIFE premises. Teaching will concentrate on new forms of transnational and interregional governance as a way forward towards Sustainable Development in the context of major climate and demographic changes.
- TERM 3
April
to June
- Courses conclude in Nice, on CIFE's main site. A special focus will be laid on Policy Intelligence, inciting participants to investigate how far the digital society enables transforming economic data into policy knowledge. As part of their academic requirements, students will complete a final Master thesis.
- Joint Master in Global Economic Governance and Public Affairs

Graduates are encouraged to apply for an internship. This facilitates their entry into the job market and allows them to benefit from a network of national and international government officials, private sector representatives and leading academics. GEGPA graduates have the possibility to apply for an exclusive internship with one of CIFE's contributing partners such as the OECD in Paris or the UNCCD in Bonn.

Giulia Belardo Italy, GEGPA 2018/19
Policy Officer, European Investment Bank (EIB)

I really appreciated the Master as it is not only academic, but also lays a lot of value on professional expertise from many different sectors. My year at CIFE was a truly bridge-building and door-opening experience. And it was definitely very valuable in preparing me for the EU Bubble in Brussels.

Julius Wiebe Germany, GEGPA 2021/22
Senior Strategist, BCG BrightHouse

Embarking on the one-year GEGPA Master, spanning three countries, has been an exhilarating journey of personal and academic growth. The best part? Meeting people from all around the world in a unique environment where collective intelligence thrives. The application of knowledge in real-world scenarios was central to the curriculum. In tumultuous geopolitical times, we had the most interesting people to talk to right there in the room with us.

Stephanie Baima USA, GEGPA 2019/20
Senior Manager for Engagement Strategies at Ceres, Inc., USA

CIFE's GEGPA Master programme provided excellent exposure to global governance structures, trade dynamics, geopolitics of energy, sustainable development and finance, policy and more, taught by experienced and prominent professors with a good mixture of academic and real-world backgrounds. The format of learning across three countries is rare and a very attractive feature as you are living in locations where the governance and policy is being produced and experiencing the culture firsthand.

For 70 years the Centre international de formation européenne has been promoting the values of Europe, European integration and governance, multilingualism and student mobility through its European and international higher education programmes. As CIFE President I am pleased to be able to contribute to the next stage in the development of this academic institution.
